Hello,

The Kit is competitively priced when compared to other similar aircraft. It is neither the most expensive nor the least expensive. I believe when you do a true apples to apples comparison you will see that the cheetah is an excellent value with many refinements not found on other aircraft in its category.

In order to support you better, we would like you to follow the link below. This will allow us to better understand what you would like and to simplify getting you the information you would like. Please click below.
